

Affordable chiropractic services for the whole family

Step into the Montgomery Health Center at Logan University in Chesterfield and you'll see parents waiting with babies and young children, older adults and young athletes all waiting to meet with the doctors and students who provide expert chiropractic care.

The Health Center features three specialty clinics: the Foot Levelers Women's Health Clinic, the Pediatric Clinic and the Sports and Rehabilitation Clinic. Each of these specialty clinics provide opportunities for Logan Doctor of Chiropractic students to provide care under the direct supervision of licensed and credentialed health care providers.

In the Women's Health Clinic, Dr. Delia Overschmidt and her student clinicians help patients with pregnancy-related pain, pelvic pain and issues related to nutrition, blood composition and hormones.

In the Pediatric Clinic, Dr. Ashley McCool and her team can advise parents on a variety of developmental issues, including helping newborns overcome post-birth musculoskeletal issues and latching-on challenges; helping young children with posture, spine development and muscle strength issues; and relieving pain from falls or sport injuries.

In the Sports and Rehabilitation Clinic, Dr. Leslie Reece and her team treat weekend warriors in addition to high school, collegiate and professional athletes. Every patient receives the same access to advanced rehabilitation techniques, including state-of-the-art imaging, lab services and nutritional support with the goal of restoring health and enhancing athletic performance.

Every year, thousands of people find answers at Montgomery Health Center. Chiropractic can be used to treat an array of neuromusculoskeletal conditions, including disc problems, whiplash, osteoarthritis, joint dysfunction, neck and back pain, headaches, sciatica, pinched nerves, carpal tunnel syndrome and fibromyalgia.

Patients are charged a flat fee of $20 per visit, which includes exams, chiropractic adjustments, and therapies with some reasonable exceptions.

LOGAN
UNIVERSITY
HEALTH CENTERS

1851 Schoettler Road • Chesterfield
(636) 230-1990 • loganhealthcenters.com