Enter Class 101, a national corporation that not only strives to help students prepare for college, but also wants to help families pay less for it. St. Louis area Class 101 graduates earned over $3,540,000 in merit scholarship money.

"We're the largest college planning firm in the U.S.," Owner and College Planning Advisor Gary Jones said. "The first in St. Louis."

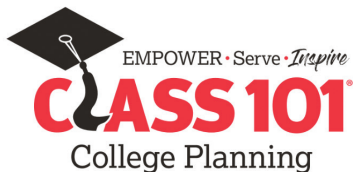

Their professional and experienced counselors walk students through the college admission process step-by-step.

As part of its College Planning Package, Class 101 provides services like college cost evaluations, guidance with scholarship and financial aid application, matching students with potential colleges based on preferences, assistance with creating a resume and other introduction/review materials, coaching in essay writing, scheduling campus visits and more.

Before a student even applies to a school, Class 101 can help a student with their high school grades and even provide ACT/SAT practice-test sessions to help reduce anxiety level when test day arrives, further reassuring that there are as few obstacles as possible between a student and their dream college.

Students are already preparing for the 2025 college year and beyond. Will your child be ready? Call today for a free consultation.
