

Buying & selling jewelry, collections & whole estates

The love of antiques spurred Maria Lambert and her partner to launch St. Louis Estate Buyers 14 years ago. Today, their business has evolved into a full-service estate liquidation company specializing in estate buyouts.

"Our service is an alternative to an estate sale; we buy everything in the house and can completely clean it out, typically in two to three days," Maria said.

Clients can liquidate the estate immediately, receive cash for all the items and empty the house at the same time. The efficient process is a tremendous help to those who need to disburse an estate, downsize their home and belongings or prepare for a move.

The best of the best is then put on the sales floor at one of St. Louis Estate Buyers retail stores – in West County Center near JCPenney's and in its new 15,000-square-foot showroom at 2151 Lemay Ferry in South County. At both locations, shoppers can find everything from jewelry to legacy furniture pieces, collectibles, art and more.

Maria is a certified appraiser, so the selection of items for sale is vetted by a professional. St. Louis Estate Buyers' selection also rotates frequently depending on what has been purchased, so there is always a reason to stop in and shop.

For sellers of jewelry, there are good reasons to stop by and sell. Maria hosts monthly Jewelry Buying Events on three days every month at the West County Mall location. Sellers can get paid cash for gold, silver, diamonds, costume jewelry, watches and coins!

If you are planning to disburse an estate, call St. Louis Estate Buyers first, for a free consultation.
