People with dementia do best in a small homelike environment. This simple fact prompted the development of Family Partners Home. Located near Hwy. 141 and Manchester Road, each home can house up to 13 people who have individual bedrooms but share a kitchen, living room and dining room where they enjoy home-style meals. Daily activities provide engaging experiences. The homes, four are currently available, also have a house doctor, nurse and specialists who regularly visit.

"Large retirement communities often overwhelm people with dementia," explained Barth Holohan, president of Family Partners Home. "A small home is much easier to navigate and because of our 1-to-5 staff to resident ratio, each resident receives greater personal attention.

"We've heard story after story about the positive role our homes have played in the lives of our residents and their families."
