

Unsung Heroes

By Bennett Clark, 5th grade

Unsung heroes are people in the military that are in the background who are not heard of. For example, a translator, a person that works on military bases, aboard ships, or in airplanes. They don't fight in the frontlines but support our country in big ways. Another person that works in the background of our military is a meteorologist. They analyze weather conditions, prepare forecasts, issue weather warning and brief weather information to pilots. There are many other people that work behind the scenes in the military, but I'll just name one more: a chemical engineer. This person makes scientific breakthroughs ever day. Chemists support Air Force missions through their research and discoveries. In conclusion, there are many people that work hard behind the scenes to help keep our nation strong.
