EAU CLAIRE, Wis. – Eau Claire County has launched its redesigned website, www.eauclairecounty.gov, developed in partnership with Revize, a leading government website agency known for their responsive and accessibility website solutions. The new site offers a modern, mobile-friendly experience, making it easier for residents to access information and services.

Key features of the new website include:

- Mobile-friendly design for seamless use on any device
- Improved accessibility to support residents of all abilities
- Streamlined navigation and upgraded search for quick access to information

The year-long redesign focused on improving overall user experience while achieving cost efficiencies. It also moves the County closer to meeting new digital accessibility standards required for state and local governments.

“This redesign is the result of months of collaboration and careful planning, with accessibility and user experience at the center of our work,” said Beth Martin, Marketing Specialist in the County’s Information Systems Department. “Our goal was to create a modern website that functions better for everyone—making it easier for residents to find information, access services, and connect with Eau Claire County from any device.” The updated website reflects the County’s ongoing commitment to transparency, efficiency, and inclusive service delivery.
