

Teachers of color still a rarity in a diversifying state

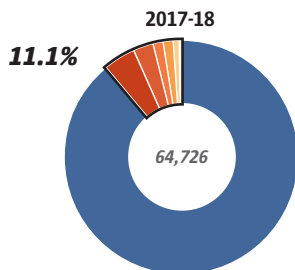

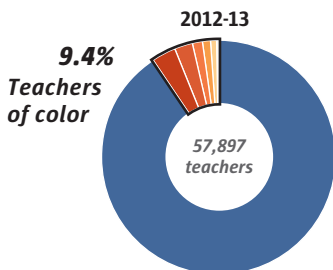

STUDENTS

Washington state's student-of-color population has grown significantly over the past five years.

TEACHERS

While the number of diverse teachers has increased as well, it hasn't increased quickly enough to match the students.

WASHINGTON STATE POPULATION

The teaching corps is also disproportionately whiter than the overall population of Washington state.

